ISLAM'S CHAMPION.

Russell Webb Explains How He Became a Mohammedan.

Why Polygamy Is Virtuous-Plan of Campaign By Which We Are to Be Made Bellevers in the Koran-Whence the Money Comes.

COPTRIGHT, 1893 When I arrived in New York on the 16th of last February I found that the object of my mission had been widely announced in the newspapers. Many treated the unheard of advent of a Mohammedan missionary in America as a huge joke and as nothing more than a subject for the wit of the paragrapher and the cartoonist. In a short time the journalists came to better understand me and the work which I proposed to Willis-"Why, he's been to see me ten do, and the resulting discussion has borne fruit already in alding to destroy the twin foes of ignorance and intol-

Call the attempt to propagate Islam in America "audacious fanaticism," or what you will, I have made more converts during these six months than any Christian missionary to a Mohamme dan country has ever made in as many years. Request, from the artisan and the judge upon the bench for literature which will throw more light upon the doctrines of Islam have come in great numbers from all parts of the country. There are now six circles formed for the purpose of the study of converted themselves. In many instances I have never seen them person-

It is not difficult to explain how I became a Mohammedan. As soon as I reached maturity I began the study of the various religions and of the mysteries of life and death. The possession of some knowledge created a thirst for more. Desiring to personally investigate the workings of the Mohammedan religion, I secured through the kindness of President Cleveland, in 1885, the consulship at Manila in the Philippine islands. The little time I had to spare outside of my official duties I spent in the pursuit of further enlightenment. There could be but one result. My investigations made me a thorough Mussulman.

Why? Because I found the morals of the followers of Allah were better than those of the people of our own Christian America. Because there is nothing about the traditions or precepts of Mohammedanism incapable of proof. Because its higher philosophy is the most perfect in the world. Because there is nothing of superstition, bigotry or intolerance about it. And because I believe it can accomplish in America what Christianity has so long attempted and so signally failed in doing. I am here to teach its beauties, its philosophy and its salvation.

I am often asked who furnishes the money to carry on this work in America. There are rich and devout Mohammedans as well as rich and devout Christians. Wealthy Indian merchants have pledged themselves to support the mission for a period of five years. At the end of that time I have no doubt suggested the idea of propagating the faith in America. I was brought to his notice through a correspondence which notice through a correspondence which I entered into four years ago with Budruddin Abdulla Kur, a member of the municipal council of Bombay, in reference to doctrinal points of the Koran. It is not difficult, even for a Christian, to fancy how warmly I, an American convert to Mohammedanism. was received by my Indian brethren. Five thousand derout Mussulmans greeted me at the mosque in Calcutta. although the British government had condemned me as an adventurous American, who had come to incite the natives to bloodshed, and had, accord-

The students at the great Modrassah college in Calcutta, most of whom are Mohammedans, requested me to speak in the hall of the college. I accepted. But the moment the lec-ture was advertised the officials interposed with an order that the hall must not be used for "religious or political purposes." It is needless to say that Christian missionaries had spoken there again and again. A small bungalow was finally provided by the enthusiastic students, where an immense audience and several British detectives listened to a purely religious discourse. Each one of the Mohammedans present who held any office under the government was either suspended or dis-charged for that "offense."

In Hyderabad (Deccan), which is the most enlightened state in India, I had an experience, at once exasperating and amusing, which illustrates how silly is the British pretense that the natives enjoy even a shadow of the rights of self-government. You have heard of the Nizam of Hyderalad, no doubt. He has entertained more European notables than any other Indian ince. When I arrived at the station in Hyderabad I found a gorgeous outfit awaiting me made up of servants, native soldiers and a costly carriage.

I remained in Hyderabad three weeks without seeing the ruler although he much desired an interview with me. The amiable Nizam, who to all outward appearances is a monarch in his own right, is not allowed to eat a meal out of the sight of a paid servant of the British government. Whatever the British resident advises he knows he must do, or else he will be subjected to new indignities.

I was permitted to lecture in the state pavilion in the public garden of Hyderabad and received an ovation, but the tent was surrounded with soldiers to prevent me from using incendiary language. I also spoke in the great mosque located in Hyderabad and the two thousand Mussulmans, after their prayers, expressed their willingness to die for me, the highest honor a Mohammedan can pay to a human being. I made immediate reply that such a sacrifice would never be necessary as I came upon a peaceful mission.

The four months I spent in India form the pleasantest memory of my life. I lived among Mohammedans all of this time. I found a richer, better, higher civilization among these so-called "barbarians" than I can find in the great metropolis of the new world to-day. The Saracenic archi-tecture at the time of Emperor Akber is the most beautiful in the world. I have never seen anything which can compare with the grandeur, the beauty and the simplicity of the great mosques. The Mohammedan merchants are honorable, courteous, refined and devout. I confess that my relations with them made me at heart a real Oriental as well as a sincere

One has no right to condemn what he does not understand. How many of those who con-William H. Quillian became converted demn its followers as "barbarians" intelligent Mohammedan? We of the west judge Mohammedanism by the Arabians of the desert. It would be just as reasonable for the east to judge the Christians by ministers who are imprisoned for their immoral deeds.

Mohammedanism satisfies the soul: Christianity does not. But I will not burden you with a missionary plead-

I wish that you may visit the east as I have visited it; that you may meet and know those devout men who leave their business, no matter how important it may be, when the hour for prayer arrives. His brothers Islam, friends and strangers alike, are always welcome to eat at the Mohammedan's table and to sleep upon his mat. He is not suspicious that he will be robbed. He does not spend his time in the enjoyments of this world. He does not seek wealth and position with that greediness which characterizes eastern people. He considers this earth but a brief stopping place, a period of preparation for the world to come, and upon this principle is fashioned all of the habits and actions of his life.

One can scarcely open an American newspaper that he does not read of some revolting instance of man's or woman's immorality or disloyalty. For years the Christian church has fought crime and misery and immorality, but crime and misery and immorality still exist, yes, are even increased. never see an outcast woman upon the streets of a Mohammedan city. We never witness any of those revolting scenes common to our own cities. The besotted, filthy, disgusting creatures, bereft of all of the nobler instincts of manhood and womanhood, who come before the judges of our police courts in New York, could not exist in a Moslem city.

I am a Believer in Polygamy, Before you throw up your hands in horror wait until you have heard what I can say. To teach polygamy is not for the present a part of my teachings here. It is not now, and it never has been, one of the doctrines of Islam, although it is not forbidden. The Mohammedan husband makes only one of the women of the harcm his real wife. The remainder are merely dependents. who have found a home in his house. They receive the shelter of his roof, eat of his food and are clothed by him. They become companions to his wife and enjoy a pure social atmosphere. Is this not better than the Christian way of throwing the woman upon the streets to earn a livelihood by a means against which the soul of a woman possessing even a tithe of purity re-

During the winter I shall lecture throughout the country upon the re-ligious of the east. Beginning this coming week we shall begin an active campaign to propagate the doctrines of Islam. Several devout Mohamme-dans from the east will aid me with my work during the winter. Hajee Abdullah Arab, one of the wealthy merchants of whom I have already spoken, will be among these. This remarkable man has a history which has a peculiarly eastern flavor at out it. He was a wealthy man's son. While vet a young man he gave all of his money to charity and for several years lived as a hermit in the woods, existing upon the most frugal diet possible and devoting himself to the study of his religion. At the request of his friends he returned to the world again and inside of a year had amassed a secand fortune. He owns several iron steamers, has houses in Bombay, Jedda and Medina and transports many of the pilgrims to and from Mecca during the annual "Huj."

I expect the arrival of Moolla Mirza Kahn next week. He comes to remain permanently in America to assist in the good work. He brings with him a cook, an English clerk, a Moulvi and a Hafiz. The latter two names need an explanation. A Moulvi is a person versed in the Arabic tongue and a Hafiz is one who is able to repeat the Koran from beginning to end from memory, a truly wonderful accomplishment, even the critical Christian must confess. My other visitors this winter will be Hajee Rhamtullah, Hajee Dawood and Moulvi Hasson Ali. It is possible also that Hajee Mohammed Abdus Salam Sahib, of Madras, a wealthy merchant and brother of the Turkish consul there;

of Madras, a wealthy merchant and brother of the Turkish consul there; Jan Mohammed Genjee, a well-to-do merchant of Calcutta, and Hajes Haroun Joffer Yussuf, a very wealthy merchant of Poone, may also be here during the fall or winter.

Many persons have asked me why the name "Mohammed" is placed before my name. It is the custom among Mussulmans to name their children after the prophet or one of the saints or khalifs of the early days of Islam. When a Christian is converted he retains his own name but adds a Mohammedan name to it. When I was in Rangoon, Burmah, the Mussulmans assembled in the grand mosque on Megul street and selected for me the name "Abdulla," which means servant of God. But when I reached Bombay Mussulmans there thought that I should have a more honorable title, so it was arranged to bestow upon me the name of "Mohammed," which is the most honored of all Mohammedan names. It is difficult to convey in English a correct idea of its meaning, but it may be said to mean in a limited to the confort Main street, and the north and east, and places the state of Kanasa on a equal footing with other states in the matter of fast trains to the World's Fair. This is probably the most satisfactory and serviceable schedule ever placed into effect between points in Southern Kansas and Kanasas City, St. Louis, Chicago and the World's Fair. The Missouri Pacific railway placed in operation in addition to its present service, and excellent through train texteen points in Southern Kansas City at Sci. Louis, Chicago and the World's Fair.

The Missouri Pacific rai lish a correct idea of its meaning, but it may be said to mean in a limited sense the material expression of the light of divinity, the comforter which Jesus said would come to His followers after His death. Like all Mohammedans, I believe that Jesus was a true prophet as well as Mohammed, and one need not relinquish his faith in Christ in order to me a Mohammedan. The Nazarene Himself prophesied the coming of the Arabian.

I feel certain that the converts I have made will be lasting ones. They will not "backslide" after the fashion of three-fourths of the Mohammedan converts to Christianity. The ones who come into the fold of Allah are thinking Christians, while only the meanest and most ignorant Moham-
